Carignan is one of the most traditionally planted grape varieties of the Languedoc and from old vines such as these can produce some excellent wines of real quality and character. In French, the word "étalage" is a display, like those used in the traditional local village markets. Their colourful displays which sell fruit, vegetables or other artisanal products reflect the care and passion that went in to hand selecting and crafting these locally sourced wines from traditional varieties, such as this superb old-vine Carignan.
