Kadool Rum is inspired by the traditional Barbados sugarcane harvest festival, or 'Grand Kadooment', one of the world's longest-running carnivals with a history dating back to the seventeenth century. It goes without saying that this merrymaking, including the crowning of the 'King and Queen of the Crop', is washed down with copious amounts of the local speciality – rum produced from the fruits of the sugar cane. Kadool's range of rums pays tribute to this proud tradition, while also looking forward to the future. Kadool Club's 8 Year Rum acts as an older brother to the 3 Year bottling, with an incredible level of development and complexity – due to the tropical heat of the Caribbean, a rum ages three times as fast as a comparable Scotch whisky.
