The Macallan Distillery in Craigellachie, Speyside, focuses on shaping whisky through cask influence. It uses carefully selected sherry-seasoned oak from Jerez, Spain, alongside American and European oak, to layer flavours of dried fruit, spice, and vanilla. Macallan controls fermentation and distillation to preserve natural malt character, and its water comes from the nearby River Spey. Releases like the Harmony Collection highlight the interaction between spirit and cask, showing the distinct profiles Macallan achieves through cask choice, maturation, and blending.
