Ben Walgate co-founded Tillingham , an innovative, biodynamic, pioneering English winery set up in 2017. Ben then started his own project in 2023, called Walgate wines, based on regenerative farming, qvevri winemaking, biodynamic principles and low intervention.

The ethos of Walgate is to make wines with a positive presence, not solely on an environmental level, but also in terms of cultural, social and economic impact. This is manifested in choices not only surrounding farming and wine production but also how the business operates.

The grapes for Walgate Pétillant Rosé 2022 are grown in East Sussex, according to Biodynamic and Regenerative principles.

A blend of Pineau d'Aunis, Gamay and Pinot Noir, roughly equal parts. The grapes were pressed to stainless steel and then bottled whilst ferment was drawing to a close. Just minimal sulphur added at bottling.

Deep salmon, light cherry and garnet in appearance. Nose is dominated by cherry and spices; a touch of vanilla and caraway seeds. Drinks like a softly sparkling red more than rosé, the Gamay makes its presence felt, a savoury adjunct to the nose. Pineau D'Aunis brings that hint of spice and a lifted savoury finish.
