Maison André Goichot is a medium-sized Burgundy negociant founded in 1947, and one of the few to remain family-owned and run. They work with purchased fruit alongside over 35 hectares of their own vineyards including Château de la Guiche in Montagny, and Château du Cray in Buxy. Today they're based in a smart, modern facility in the heart of Beaune. The talented Adrien Goichot heads up the winemaking team and has built strong relationships with growers across the region, allowing them to offer a range of appellations. Especially strong in the Cote de Beaune and Cotes Chalonnaise, they offer a range of wines from across the region, notable for their purity of fruit, smart winemaking and tactful use of oak, while retaining balance and freshness. They prefer to buy grapes rather than wine, giving Adrien total control over winemaking and ageing.

Their Meursault is a classic example from this famous village. The grapes are pressed directly after harvest, then alcoholic and malolactic fermentations take place in 30% new French oak barrels. Aging lasts for 12-14 months before bottling.

A nose of roasted hazelnut, nectarine, ripe melon and nougat with a powerful yet impeccably balanced palate which combine ripeness with layers of flavour and a finely balanced, complex finish.
